#	Article	IF	CITATIONS
1	Declines in British-breeding populations of Afro-Palaearctic migrant birds are linked to bioclimatic wintering zone in Africa, possibly via constraints on arrival time advancement. Bird Study, 2012, 59, 111-125.	1.0	82
2	Population trends of breeding birds in British woodlands over a 32â€year period: relationships with food, habitat use and migratory behaviour. Ibis, 2009, 151, 464-486.	1.9	75
3	Recent changes in bird populations in British broadleaved woodland. Ibis, 2007, 149, 14-28.	1.9	61
4	Weak effects of geolocators on small birds: A metaâ€analysis controlled for phylogeny and publication bias. Journal of Animal Ecology, 2020, 89, 207-220.	2.8	61
5	Species-specific responses of woodland birds to stand-level habitat characteristics: The dual importance of forest structure and floristics. Forest Ecology and Management, 2011, 261, 1224-1240.	3.2	51
6	A panâ€European, multipopulation assessment of migratory connectivity in a nearâ€ŧhreatened migrant bird. Diversity and Distributions, 2015, 21, 1051-1062.	4.1	50
7	Habitat selection by Marsh Tits Poecile palustris in the UK. Ibis, 2007, 149, 224-233.	1.9	24
8	Potential impact of grey squirrels Sciurus carolinensis on woodland bird populations in England. Journal of Ornithology, 2010, 151, 211-218.	1.1	24
9	An experimental evaluation of the effects of geolocator design and attachment method on betweenâ€year survival on whinchats Saxicola rubetra . Journal of Avian Biology, 2016, 47, 530-539.	1.2	23
10	No short―or longâ€ŧerm effects of geolocator attachment detected in Pied Flycatchers Ficedula hypoleuca . Ibis, 2017, 159, 734-743.	1.9	20
11	Defining the key wintering habitats in the Sahel for declining African-Eurasian migrants using expert assessment. Bird Conservation International, 2014, 24, 477-491.	1.3	14
12	Little evidence of temporal changes in edge-use by woodland birds in southern England. Bird Study, 2006, 53, 323-327.	1.0	3
13	Assessing breeding success in common woodland birds using a novel method. Bird Study, 2011, 58, 409-420.	1.0	3
14	Estimating national population sizes: Methodological challenges and applications illustrated in the common nightingale, a declining songbird in the <scp>UK</scp> . Journal of Applied Ecology, 2018, 55, 2008-2018.	4.0	3
