

The Unheld Child: Social Work, Social Distancing and the Protection during the COVID-19 Pandemic

British Journal of Social Work

52, 2403-2421

DOI: 10.1093/bjsw/bcac055

Citation Report

#	ARTICLE	IF	CITATIONS
1	Ontological (In)security in Early Career Social Work during COVID-19: Experiences in Scotland. British Journal of Social Work, 0, , .	1.4	1
2	An opinion: social workers serve vulnerable populations in various digital ways under the crisis of the COVID-19 pandemic. Frontiers in Psychiatry, 0, 14, .	2.6	0
3	Spatialâ€temporal enactments of home-schooling among low-income families of primary-aged children. Educational Review, 0, , 1-19.	3.7	0
4	â€How can we help?â€™â€™ The role of formulation meetings in an Edge of Care team. , 2023, 1, 79-84.		0
6	Safe Staffing and Workload Management in Social Work: A Scoping Review of Legislation, Policy and Practice. British Journal of Social Work, 0, , .	1.4	0
7	Embodied practice in a disembodied time: How the COVIDâ€™19 pandemic shaped direct work with children and young people. Child and Family Social Work, 0, , .	1.4	0