

"In the Spirit of Men there is no Blood": Blood as Trope of

Shakespeare Quarterly

40, 284

DOI: 10.2307/2870724

Citation Report

#	ARTICLE	IF	CITATIONS
1	Menstruation, Misogyny, and the Cure for Love. Women's Studies , 2005, 34, 461-484.	0.1	9
2	Past the Size of Dreaming? Shakespeare's Rome. , 2016, , 1-16.		0
4	âœl grant I am a womanâœ: Gender and Silence in Julius Caesar. Shakespeare , 2019, 15, 107-120.	0.0	2
5	Portia's Wound, Calphurnia's Dream: Reading Character in Julius Caesar. , 2002, , 170-187.		0
6	Hands, Power, Masculinity: New Readings of Dismemberment in Titus Andronicus. Shakespeare Review , 2010, 46, 365-384.	0.1	0
7	Wild Civility: Men at War in Royalist Elegy. , 2013, , 169-189.		0
8	Freudian Reading of Julius Caesar: Primal Horde and Group Politics. Shakespeare Review , 2015, 51, 735-759.	0.1	0
9	The Tomb Womb. Palgrave Studies in Literature, Science and Medicine , 2019, , 139-165.	0.1	0
10	The Thick Womb. , 2019, , 57-82.		0
12	Mother of Battles: Volumnia and Her Son in Shakespeare's Coriolanus . Differences , 1992, 4, 154-170.	0.2	2