

Beneath the Rising Sun: "Frenchness" and the Arch

International Journal of Historical Archaeology

12, 370-387

DOI: 10.1007/s10761-008-0073-7

Citation Report

#	ARTICLE	IF	CITATIONS
1	Sexualizing Space. , 0, , 271-289.		3
2	Sexuality Studies in Archaeology. Annual Review of Anthropology, 2008, 37, 317-336.	0.4	81
3	At the World's End: The Lost Landscape of Monto, Dublin's Notorious Red-light District. Landscapes (United Kingdom), 2009, 10, 21-38.	0.2	4
4	Americanist Archaeologies: 2008 in Review. American Anthropologist, 2009, 111, 137-145.	0.7	6
5	Sexual Effects. , 2011, , 11-28.		4
6	Incorrigible Vagabonds and Suspicious Spaces in Nineteenth-Century New Orleans. Historical Archaeology, 2011, 45, 55-73.	0.5	8
7	Struggling to Recover New Orleans: Creativity in the Gaps and Margins. Visual Anthropology Review, 2011, 27, 78-93.	0.2	5
8	Thinking through "Vernacular Cosmopolitanisms": Historical Archaeology in Senegal and the Material Contours of the African Atlantic. International Journal of Historical Archaeology, 2013, 17, 40-71.	0.2	26
11	Fashioning Frenchness: Gens de Couleur Libres and the Cultural Struggle for Power in Antebellum New Orleans. Journal of Social History, 2016, , shw093.	0.1	0
12	Homesick Blues: Excavating Crooked Intimacies in Late Nineteenth- and Early Twentieth-Century Jook Joints. Historical Archaeology, 2017, 51, 43-59.	0.5	7
13	The Prostitute and the Dandy; or, The Romantic Complications of Capitalism as Viewed from New Orleans. Critical Historical Studies, 2017, 4, 179-207.	0.5	0
14	Fabricating the "Southern Belle": Assessing the Role of Imported Material Culture in the Confederacy. Journal of Maritime Archaeology, 2018, 13, 37-53.	0.2	0