

Epilepsy in Papua New Guinea: a longitudinal cohort study

Archives of Disease in Childhood

104, 941-946

DOI: 10.1136/archdischild-2019-317217

Citation Report

#	ARTICLE	IF	CITATIONS
1	Living with thalassaemia in Papua New Guinea, the experience of children, adolescents and their families. Journal of Paediatrics and Child Health , 2021, 57, 1589-1593.	0.8	3
2	Epidemiological features of epilepsy in the countries of the African continent. ĀĀ¼no-Rossijskij Ā¼urnal TerapevtiĀeskoj Praktiki , 2020, 1, 37-43.	0.3	0
3	Is there a relationship between socioeconomic factors and prevalence, adherence and outcome in childhood epilepsy? A systematic scoping review. European Journal of Paediatric Neurology , 2022, 38, 1-6.	1.6	7
4	Status of epilepsy in the tropics: An overlooked perspective. Epilepsia Open , 2023, 8, 32-45.	2.4	6