

Distinct genetic basis for root responses to lipo-chitooligosaccharides from different microbial origins

Journal of Experimental Botany

72, 3821-3834

DOI: 10.1093/jxb/erab096

Citation Report

#	ARTICLE	IF	CITATIONS
1	Innovation and appropriation in mycorrhizal and rhizobial Symbioses. Plant Cell , 2022, 34, 1573-1599.	6.6	50
2	Microbial amelioration of salinity stress in endangered accessions of Iranian licorice (Glycyrrhiza) Tj ETQq1 1 0.7843,14 rgBT /Overlock 12	3.6	12
4	Spatially and temporally distinct Ca ²⁺ changes in Lotus japonicus roots orient fungal-triggered signalling pathways towards symbiosis or immunity. Journal of Experimental Botany , 0, , .	4.8	4
5	Genetic architecture of the response of Arabidopsis thaliana to a native plant-growth-promoting bacterial strain. Frontiers in Plant Science , 0, 14, .	3.6	1